Assess Student Progress

HESI | October 20, 2021

We've reached the middle of the fall semester, which means for many educators it's time to assess student progress in their courses through midterm exams. As you learn more about students' knowledge gaps, giving them the right tools in the second half of the semester can ensure they are on the right track to finish the semester strong. Learn how HESI® Review & Testing Solutions can help you analyze and improve student performance.

Viewpoints

For student success, giving them an extra push of motivation or guidance on test-taking skills can make a huge difference in their educational journey and improve their chances of passing the NCLEX®. Hear from a member of our HESI Compass team on how coaching can be that difference.
